

Dr. Katy Lanz

Dr. Katy Lanz is a healthcare executive with over two decades of success building disruptive innovations for value-based community services. Katy uses her clin-ops experience along with her national network of systems, health plans and funders/investors to custom design and advise programs and products. She most recently served PCMA, as Chief Strategy Officer and Aspire Health, as Chief Clinical Officer from start-up through Anthem/Elevance acquisition in 2018.

Her advisory firm, TopSight Partners, is a strategy and design advisory partner that supports multi-stage organizations hoping to create, evolve and scale community health products. Katy is currently an advisor to Dollar General, National Investment Center, National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization (Board), and other growing companies (provider services, payers, investors, tech and devices).

The first decade of Katy's career were at the bedside of the seriously ill. She is a nationally awarded clinical expert, mentor, fellow in palliative care, triple board certified, and leadership/business trained through Vanderbilt's Inaugural DNP program and Duke's Leadership Fellowship. Katy has led two demonstrations and contracts with the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation and has over a decade of value-based leadership in community healthcare services.
